

Animals on the Farm

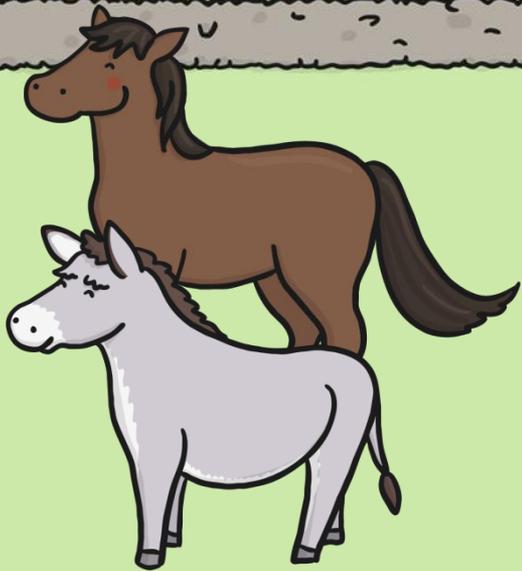

Click on the animals to see where they live on the farm.

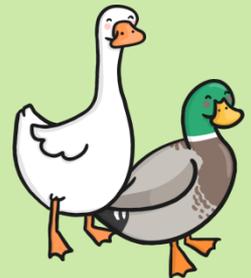

Cow

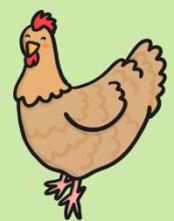

Sheep and sheepdogs

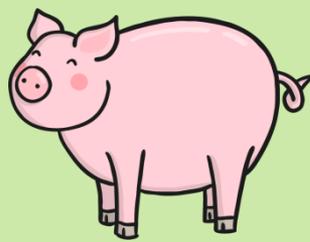

Horses and donkeys

Geese and ducks

Chickens

Pigs

Pigs live in a sty with lots of mud for them to roll around in for keeping cool in summer.

Back to the Farm

Resource:
Pig and mud

Cows live in fields with plenty of grass for them to feed on.

Resource:
Cow and grass

Photo courtesy of Lets Go Out Bournemouth and Poole (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Cows are milked in the barn. The farmer cleans the milk and then it is sent to the shops for people to buy.

Select
another animal

Resource:

Milk to feel / smell / taste

Photo courtesy of monkeypuzzle (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Sheep live outside where they like to eat grass. They have big woolly coats to keep them warm. When it is very cold, some sheep stay in a barn.

Resource:

Sheep and woolly material

Photo courtesy of WayShare (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

A sheepdog helps to round the sheep up when it is time for them to come into the barn.

Resource:
Dog

In the summer, the farmers shear the sheep. They shave off their woolly coats. The wool is used to make clothes, like jumpers.

Resource:
Wool

Chickens live in a chicken roost, which is like a wooden shed for them to lay eggs in.

Resource:
Chicken / box

Chickens live in a chicken roost, which is like a wooden shed for them to lay eggs in.

Select another animal

Resource:
Eggs and egg box

Photos courtesy of redjar and storebukkebruse (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Geese and ducks like to live near ponds and water on the farm, but they tend to roam around as well!

Resource:

Water and plastic ducks courtesy of inknife_2000 (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

The farmer collects eggs from the ducks to sell.
Duck eggs are bigger than chicken eggs.

Select
another animal

Horses and donkeys live outside and in stables.
They like to eat grass or hay.

Resource:
Horse, grass, hay

Some horses help on the farm by pulling the plough. Horses also help the farm by providing manure, which is good for the crops.

Sometimes donkeys help to carry things. They are very strong!

Select
another animal

Resource:
Donkey

Photo courtesy of EU Humanitarian Aid and Civil Protection (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

